

LILIES INNOVATIONS

Impact Report | 2026

Impact Report

Transforming agricultural value chains and creating lasting positive change for farmers, communities, and the environment.

Project Spotlight

Scaling Up Value Addition for Incomes and Nutrition

SUV4IN strengthens the soybean value chain by increasing farmer productivity, improving market access, and expanding Lilies Innovations processing capacity. The project targets 1,500 farmers, engages youth and women aggregators, and creates new jobs along the value chain.

1,500

Smallholder farmers reached, with 50% women and 40% youth participation.

20

Youth and women aggregators trained as entrepreneurs.

50

New jobs targeted through direct employment by 2027.

15%

Productivity and income increase targeted for value chain actors by 2027.

How Impact Is Created

- 1 Coordinate producer organizations and smallholder farmers.
- 2 Provide inputs, training, and field mentoring.
- 3 Guarantee offtake at fairer and more predictable prices.
- 4 Process crops locally into nutritious, market-ready foods.

2027 Target

+15%

Increase productivity and income for value chain actors through coordinated farmer support, offtake, and processing.

Impact Areas

The report pulls together the same impact themes shown across the public site: farmer empowerment, value addition, nutrition, market access, and climate-smart production.

Farmer Empowerment

Input loans for seeds and pesticides plus guaranteed purchase agreements at 10% above prevailing market rates.

Reliable Market Access

Direct partnership with farmer organizations strengthens supply chains and improves income stability.

Value Addition & Nutrition

Local soybean, maize, and sunflower are processed into affordable porridge flour and nutritious puffs.

Climate Resilience

Climate-smart agriculture, soil conservation, and clean energy investments reduce operational and environmental risk.

Program Locations

Lilongwe

T/A Chitekwere District

Mchinji

T/A Mlonyeni District

Ntchisi

T/A Kalira District

Downloadable Impact Report

Prepared for partners, funders, and stakeholders exploring Lilies Innovations impact work.